

Is diving safe?

Diving has an extremely strong safety record and there are very few diving accidents each year. PADI is the world's largest dive organisation and its courses are well proven. Safety is very much an individual responsibility when diving, so please follow the guidelines given to you during your training and briefings and respect the marine life and underwater environment.